

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a method for producing randomly mutated nucleic acid sequences and corresponding proteins or polypeptides. More particularly, the mutated nucleic acid sequences are generated by submitting a DNA template to polymerase chain reaction in a reaction buffer comprising an alcohol.